

allies in London last night, Sir Joseph G. Ward, Minister of Finance of New Zealand, said he regretted that the Entente Allies, in their reply to President Wilson's suggestions concerning peace, did not refer to the islands in the Pacific, which he declared Australia and New Zealand were determined should never be restored to Germany.

Sir Joseph said the fate of the German colonies and sea power was a matter of vital importance to Australia. They had strong feeling concerning the restoration of the German colonies and did not want German bases at Australia's back door again.

ALLIES COMBINING TO SUPPORT WILSON PLANS FOR PEACE

Official and Unofficial View in Paris, London, Petrograd and Rome Tend Same Way.

LONDON, Jan. 27.—Fresh proof of the solidarity of the Allies was furnished to-day, in the belief of officials, in the identical opinions as to President Wilson's Senate address voiced by official and semi-official sources in Paris, Petrograd, Rome and London.

The view that the President's aims and ideals in general approximate those outlined by the Allies in their reply was held in all of these expressions. Russia furnished the strongest statement, officially announcing her approval of the American President's views as to all nations having an outlet to the sea and as to an independent, autonomous Poland and as to his general aims after the war to prevent any future world conflict.

The statement, which was issued from the Foreign Office, noted "with satisfaction that President Wilson makes a sharp contrast between the definite reply of the Allies to his first communication and the evasive note of the Central Powers," and concludes:

"As to the nature of the peace to be concluded, whether it be a peace without victory or not, one should remember that it never has been the aim of the Allies to crush their enemies, and that they have never insisted upon victory in that sense over Germany. It is Germany who has taken that view and who wishes to dictate peace as a victor."

Other peace news which aroused comment here to-day included the action of the Manchester conference of the British Labor Party in endorsing the President's speech and in urging that when the Peace Conference does eventually come, organized labor be granted representation on the British committee which will meet to fix terms.

Paris reported that United Socialist Deputies of the Chamber had formally adopted resolutions approving Wilson's aims and urging that "democrats of all nations" join in hastening peace. The eighty-nine members signing the resolution are of the Extreme Socialist wing.

120,000 GERMANS ATTACK HILL 304 ON VERDUN FRONT

Paris Reports Declare All the Positions Lost on Thursday Have Been Regained.

BERLIN MAKES DENIAL.

Official Statement Insists All French Attacks Were Repulsed With Heavy Loss.

PARIS, Jan. 27.—Spirited artillery combats marked the continued struggle for supremacy around Hill 304 to-day between German and French forces, the official statement declared. The French fire was directed with destructive effect against German works. The same sort of fighting was in progress around Eparges.

Paris estimated to-day that six full divisions, or 120,000 men, were used by the Germans in their assault.

Every inch of the battleground around Verdun was long ago accurately mapped and ranged for artillery. Advances to-day indicated that the French had wrested back from the enemy practically all of the advanced positions which the costly German assault of Thursday night had won.

A deluge of fire, a flood of machine gun bullets and the fiercest sort of hand-to-hand fighting has again torn and soaked the soil of Dead Man's Hill and Hill 304, already furrowed and blackened by dozens of previous battles of precisely the same sort.

Paris reported the belief to-day that the concerted assault was an attempt by the attack to ascertain whether the French were preparing an assault on the west bank of the Meuse following their recent successful offensive on the east, where Gen. Nivelle celebrated his departure from Verdun and assumption of general command by a bold stroke. The attack cost the Germans thousands of men. The slopes of the two hills offered no protection at all to the advancing Teutonic columns and the execution of the French guns was terrific.

BERLIN (via Sayville wireless), Jan. 27.—French attacks throughout the night and this morning against positions on Hill 304, won yesterday by the Germans, were fruitless, to-day's official statement declared. All German assaults broke down with sanguinary losses to the attackers. The official statement says:

"Unsuccessful night attack of French against positions on Height 304 captured by us was followed in the morning hours by further attacks, which likewise broke down sanguinarily."

"Southwest of Dixmude a Belgian outpost of ten men was captured with no losses to our own forces."

"South of the La Besace Canal several advances of English detachments, prepared by fire, failed."

"Southeast of Chilly French advancing against our trench were repulsed. Our own reconnoitering parties found a French first-line position empty near Barleux."

"Near Manheulles in the Wouire and on Combres height and the Meuse bend, west of St. Mihiel, reconnoitering parties entered French trenches. Thrusting detachments of Hanoverian reserve infantry regiment No. 73 distinguished themselves on this occasion as in preceding days."

German success at Height 304 was achieved with "exceedingly small losses," the official press bureau declared to-day in a statement asserting the German morale was proved still intact and its offensive spirit unbroken by recent successes on all fronts.

Receiving a number of local successes on all fronts, the press bureau observed: "These are important because they cause concentration of strong hostile forces at these places."

GIRL OF 4 DIES OF BURNS.

Little Adelaide McKnight's Dress Ignited at Gas Stove.

Adelaide McKnight, four years old, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Scott McKnight of Great Neck, L. I., died this morning in Nassau Hospital, Mineola, of burns which she suffered last night when her dress caught fire from a gas stove. Her sister Nancy, six years old, was slightly burned trying to tear the flaming clothes from Adelaide.

The children were in the care of Emma Zubar, a maid, and when she left the kitchen for a moment Adelaide went to the gas stove. The dress caught fire and she screamed. Her mother, who was in the room, rushed to her aid and tried to smother the flames. The fire was too large, however, and she was unable to do so.

When Mr. McKnight and the maid hurried in, Mr. McKnight wrapped the child in towels and called in several physicians.

FIVE AIR BATTLES WON BY FRENCH ON WESTERN LINE

War Office Reports That Guynemer Has Brought Down His Thirtieth Machine.

PARIS, Jan. 27.—The French War Office to-day made the following report on aerial activities:

"During the day of January 26 French scouting aeroplanes delivered a number of aerial attacks during the course of which five aeroplanes of the enemy were brought down."

"Two of these machines fell in the region of Verdun, one north of Givry and the other near Montfalconne. Two others were brought down at Troslybeuville, near Carlepoint, in the Oise, and a fifth machine, attacked by Lieutenant Guynemer, was compelled to land within our lines near Bouillon, and the aviator was made prisoner."

It has been confirmed that during the day of Jan. 25 the enemy airplane attacked by Lieut. Guynemer was destroyed by this pilot near Goyancourt. These two recent victories bring to thirty the number of German aeroplanes which Guynemer has vanquished up to the present time. He bombarded the railroad station and certain military factories at Ham. Fire and heavy explosions resulted from this attack."

friends told me not to pay any attention to it. The story from Kansas City, Kan., told of Miss Sacher's having been before Judge Brady out there last summer as a character witness for a dog.

"When did you get home, Louise?" Judge Brady asked her, and then he advised her to stay with her father. But she said that life was too dull and that she would soon be on her way.

"Eight dollars a week for CHICAGO JOB." "Then she beat it to Chicago," said father Nicholas, "where she could get eight dollars a week. That was last fall. I know I know those stories in the New York paper, but them papers has surely got things twisted."

"I don't know no Judge Brady," said the "Alaskan June." "The only Judge I know is Judge Jennings of Alaska and I know Gov. Strong of Alaska. Say, ask the Governor about me. Somebody's trying to knock me."

Anyhow, the snowbird from Alaska is no lecher. She has made the white lights of Broadway look like the aurora borealis, in the land from which she came. "Old Joe Cool" came in. "I don't know why they want to bother me," continued the lady from Kuyukuk. "I'm just down here to have a good time and believe me I'm having it. To-night's the big night and all my time's taken. The other night I was out with Flo Ziegfeld and we had a fine time. I was out too, with Clifton Crawford."

While she was in a restaurant with the Ziegfeld party Miss Sacher took off her high heeled shoes, saying they hurt her—she missed her moccasins. She wouldn't put her shoes on again, but walked in her stockings to the taxi.

"Suppose some people are jealous," she said, "because people like me because I am fascinating."

BATTLE CONTINUES WITH GREAT FURY ALONG RIGA FRONT

Berlin and Petrograd Report Repulse of Fierce Attacks—Losses Are Heavy.

BERLIN (via Sayville Wireless), Jan. 27.—"East of the River Aa new Russian reinforcements have been unable to regain the ground conquered by our troops," asserted to-day's official statement from the front of Prince Leopold.

"Victorious progress" of the German advance in the Riga theatre of war was announced in a review of operations there issued by the official press bureau.

"After powerful artillery preparation," the statement said, "East Prussian troops heroically stormed Russian positions west and northwest of Kainzen. In this swampy sector there are no entrenchments existing, the positions being constructed with trunks of trees and other materials on the swampy ground."

"French-Russian forces temporarily retarded the advance of German columns, which, however, succeeded in getting ahead in a hostile trench more than a mile and a half north. This compelled the Russians to retire northward."

"As on the previous day, the Russian losses were exceedingly heavy, one regiment, according to unanimous statements of prisoners, losing all except three officers and 400 men. Most of those lost were killed and buried by artillery in their own positions. The prisoners asserted they were without food for two days and that many of their comrades had mutilated."

"East of the Aa the Russians violently attacked five times, being repulsed with heavy losses."

PETROGRAD, Jan. 27.—Beating back German attacks was reported in to-day's War Office statement from the Riga front.

"After a heavy bombardment east of Kainzen road toward Chloik, the Germans attacked and were beaten back with great losses," the statement said. "Around Mitau our gas attack created panic among the Prussians."

700,000 FRENCH FORCED TO WORK FOR GERMANS

Mayor of an Occupied Town, Now in Paris, Tells of Conditions.

PARIS, Jan. 27.—Seven hundred thousand inhabitants of the invaded regions in the north of France are engaged in forced labor for the Germans, according to M. Dibudeville, Mayor of the Town of Corchy, who has just arrived from the occupied region at Evian.

The Mayor's estimate, he says, is based upon careful, serious calculation, taking as a basis the numbers of inhabitants personally known by him as having been taken from the communes in his region. Three hundred out of the 900 inhabitants of the village of Esmerly-Hallon, he declares, have been obliged to serve the German occupying force, the remainder being either imprisoned or exiled to Germany. No distinctions are made as to age or sex in the choice of the forcibly enrolled laborers. M. Dibudeville says.

1,000 WOMEN AND GIRLS ARE REPORTED KILLED

Paris Hears of an Explosion in the Arsenal at Dresden.

PARIS, Jan. 27.—The Dresden arsenal has been blown up and 1,000 women and young girls killed, according to a letter taken from a German soldier dated Dec. 30.

The letter was written from Dresden and the writer said that all the windows within a radius of twelve miles were broken by the explosion. He declared the authorities were keeping the news secret and that no railroad tickets were being issued for Dresden except for urgent reasons.

URGES GREAT TERMINAL TO CUT COST OF LIVING

Railroad President Plans Big Storage Plant to Cover a Block on West Street.

The erection by the city of a fifteen-story terminal, to occupy a whole block in West Street, with ample railroad facilities and cold storage equipment was suggested by Clifford S. Sims, Vice President of the Delaware & Hudson Railroad Company this afternoon as one of the important steps to be taken in reducing the high cost of living in this city.

Mr. Sims made the suggestion at City Club's weekly luncheon, where the problem was under discussion. Other speakers were George W. Perkins and S. J. Lowell, the latter president of the State Grange.

"One of the first benefits to be derived from such a structure," said Mr. Sims, "would be the elimination of a great deal of the cartage expense, which no enters so largely into the high cost of living."

$248,000,000 TAX LEVIED BY THE NEW REVENUE MEASURE

Corporations to Pay 50 Per Cent. More on Their "Excess Profits."

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—The new Revenue Bill to raise by taxation $248,000,000 was introduced in the House to-day by Representative Kitchin, the majority leader. The bill levies upon the "excess profits" of corporations and partnerships, increases by 50 per cent. the present tax on inheritances for an issue of $300,000,000 in short time certificates of indebtedness to meet the treasury deficit and for the sale of $100,000,000 in bonds, besides the $231,000,000 in Panama Canal bonds already authorized.

The bill was approved by the caucus of House Democrats by a vote of 123 to 13. The thirteen Democrats who bolted on the measure made preparations to-day to carry the fight to the floor of the House, and will press their opposition vigorously.

Chairman Kitchin is frank about the incidence of the taxation. He says almost all the tax is bound to be gathered north of Mason's and Dixon's line and by "those who have been clamoring for preparedness and are benefiting because of preparedness appropriations."

Mr. Kitchin outlines the way the sponsors of the bill expect to raise the required revenue in this way:

Excess profits tax, $200,000,000.
Sale of Panama Canal bonds, $231,000,000.
Sale of new long term bonds, $100,000,000.
Certificates of indebtedness, designed to meet an impending deficit in the Treasury during the last three months of the current fiscal year, $300,000,000. These certificates are redeemable within a year, but probably will be redeemed within three months, to save interest.

CAPTAIN AND GIRL CHOKED IN CLOSETS TO DODGE RAIDERS

Father-in-Law Tells in Divorce Court of Saving Robbins From Suffocation.

Justice Lehman in the Supreme Court heard to-day the story of how Capt. Alfred M. Robbins, U. S. M. C., and a Titian-haired beauty braved suffocation to thwart the efforts of a raiding party headed by Herbert F. Patterson, the captain's father-in-law, to obtain evidence for a divorce. The evidence was sufficient, for Mrs. Hazel D. Robbins of No. 300 Riverside Drive, was awarded a decree.

Mrs. Robbins, bundled in a sable coat, came to court in her limousine with her father and mother, but the captain was not present. He was last heard of at Las Animas, Col., where he was retired from service. The raid occurred in Cincinnati. The young naval man was on duty in the Ohio city at the time.

The couple were quietly married in Jersey City on Oct. 23, 1913, and similar secrecy was sought for the divorce trial, but Mr. Patterson was compelled by the court to give all details of the raid.

Mr. Patterson told the Court that about six months before his son-in-law went to Cincinnati the young couple had separated.

He sent four New York detectives to Cincinnati to follow the Captain, and after three weeks of shadowing Mr. Patterson received the hurry call he expected.

"I went to Cincinnati," the father-in-law testified. "I met the detectives I had sent and with them went to the Government garage in East Fifth Street. We saw Capt. Robbins and a young woman I had never seen before leave the garage together and we followed them to a fashionable apartment at No. 231 East Fourth Street."

"We waited downstairs for some time, and after the lights went out in the apartment we broke in the door. It was dark and not a sound could be heard. We switched on the lights and still no one was to be found. Then we heard heavy breathing from two closets. Finally a woman coughed in one of them. Then I heard Mr. Robbins cough, and I located him in the other closet."

"We ordered them to open the door, but they refused and were willing, it seemed, to suffocate in there before they would come out. We were compelled to force open these doors too. "Mr. Robbins was dragged out. He had taken off his shoes, collar and tie. He looked sheepish. We found the woman attired in a pink silk kimono. Her hair was hanging down her back."

Mr. Patterson said he was very formal to his son-in-law and his companion.

"I said to the men who were with me: 'There's my son-in-law. This woman is not his wife. Be sure to take a good look at them. It may prove useful later,' Mr. Patterson testified."

"As I was going out Mr. Robbins asked me to have a talk with him. I told him I would meet him outside. I met him after he had clothed himself and we went to the University Club in Cincinnati and had a talk. That was the last I saw of him."

One of the detectives who took part in the raid corroborated the father-in-law.

Mrs. Robbins told of her marriage and asked for the custody of her fourteen months' old son. The court granted her request. When she was asked if she desired alimony she spurned it.

Capt. Robbins's home is in Washington, D. C. He was a Lieutenant until Jan. 16, this year, when he was made a Captain of the Marine Corps and retired. He is thirty years old.

With the Fingers! Says Corns Lift Out Without Any Pain

Sore corns, hard corns, soft corns or any kind of a corn can shortly be lifted right out with the fingers if you will apply directly upon the corn a few drops of freecorn, says a Cincinnati authority.

It is claimed that at small cost one can get a quarter of an ounce of freecorn at any drug store, which is sufficient to rid one's feet of every corn or callus without pain or soreness or the danger of infection.

This new drug is an ether compound, and while sticky, dries the moment it is applied and does not inflame or even irritate the surrounding tissue. This announcement will interest many women here, for it is said that the present high-heeled footwear is putting corns on practically every woman's feet.—Adv.

TEA DRIVES WOMAN TO SUICIDE; LEAPS FROM A WINDOW

Drank Ten to Fifteen Cups a Day, Says Brother at Williamsburg Hospital.

Miss Bridget Gilroy, forty-four years old, of No. 69 Diamond Street, Greenpoint, a patient in St. Catharine's Hospital at Bushwick Avenue and Maurer Street, Williamsburg, suffering from a nervous breakdown brought on by excessive tea drinking, jumped from a fourth floor window of the hospital shortly before 11 o'clock to-day and was instantly killed. Her body was impaled on the pickets of an iron fence about the hospital building.

"The woman's nervous condition, which resulted in her death, was undoubtedly caused by tea drinking," Coroner Wagner said after an investigation. "I understand she had made efforts to break herself of the habit, but had been unable to do so."

Miss Gilroy was taken to the hospital yesterday afternoon by her brother, Patrick Gilroy. She was a nervous wreck and he said it was the third time she had collapsed in the last year. She was placed in the women's ward on the fourth floor.

This morning she left her bed and walked out of the ward unobserved. In the corridor she met a nun and asked to be directed to the washroom. She went in, closed the door behind her and jumped from the window.

The draught from the open window opened the door and the nun saw that the room was empty. She hurried to the window and saw the body of the woman in the street below. Doctors hurried out, but the woman died before they reached her.

"We simply could not stop my sister's continual tea drinking," her brother said; "she always had a pot brewing on the stove and drank it all day long, with every meal and between meals. She took at least ten or fifteen cups every day."

BAKER QUILTS SHIPPING BOARD AFTER CLASH WITH M'ADOO

Objected to Secretary's Activity in Connection With Chairmanship of the Body.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—Bernard N. Baker of Baltimore has resigned from the Shipping Board and his resignation has been accepted by the President. To official Washington the resignation of Mr. Baker, who was one of the organizers of the Atlantic Transport line and a shipping man of progressive tendencies who has advocated the stimulating of American shipping by Government ownership, was not a surprise.

Since his appointment he has had some little friction with Secretary McAdoo. The Secretary of the Treasury was to have been an ex-officio member of the board as it was at first planned. Even after it had been decided that Mr. McAdoo was not to be a member, however, he continued his activity in its work. When this participation reached the point where Mr. McAdoo told Mr. Baker that the chairmanship of the board should go to the Pacific coast, Mr. Baker rebelled, it is understood.

Mr. McAdoo gave out a statement to-day saying that Mr. Baker asked to-day to think over Mr. McAdoo's contention regarding the assignment of the Chairmanship and then resigned overnight.
